

QUESTIONS

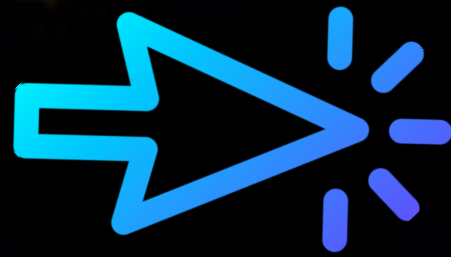

FOR THE HISTORY CLASSROOM

Can someone challenge that?

SOCRATIC CIRCLES

A large, textured question mark is centered in the background. It has a grainy, charcoal-like appearance with some darker and lighter grey tones. The text is overlaid on this question mark.

Why do you say that?

Idea ...

Encourage students
to place questions
on 'the' board or in a question box

Post it notes / paper
tickets
available on desks

'Small' Questions here

'Big' Questions here

A large, textured question mark is centered in the background. It has a grainy, charcoal-like appearance with some darker and lighter grey tones. The text is overlaid on this question mark.

Why is this an important question?

Tip

...

(Hands up) Only ...

To ask a question

Can you give an example
to support your idea?

A large, textured question mark is centered in the background. It has a grainy, stippled appearance in shades of grey and black. The text is overlaid on this question mark.

How can you justify that?

A large, textured question mark is centered in the background. It has a grainy, stippled appearance, similar to a chalkboard or a rough surface. The text is overlaid on this question mark.

Can someone elaborate?

Why?

Why not?

Idea ...

Allow students to invite the next response

Who might argue with that?

How did you get to that?

POSE PAUSE

