Taking Sides: who is who, what is what?

There was a number of groups involved in the Vietnam conflict. The map and activities below should help you understand the differences between them. The Ho Chi Minh Trail was a complex web of jungle paths that allowed the North Vietnamese to move soldiers and supplies into the south. In 1965, it took six months to travel from North Vietnam to Saigon, by 1970, the journey was cut to six weeks. From the air, the Ho Chi Minh Trail was hard to see. The Americans tried to destroy the trail with bombs, napalm and Agent Orange, a powerful chemical. This had little effect and the trail stayed operational.

True or False?

- The NVA and PAVN are essentially the same thing.
- Ho Chi Minh learned about guerrilla tactics from China.
- Most Americans supported their involvement in Vietnam.
- The cost of killing one VC soldier was calculated at 400,000 dollars.
- Bombs killed more people than disease on the HCM trail.
- The NLF and VC are essentially the same thing.
- The VC and the NVA are essentially the same thing.
- More bombs were dropped in Vietnam than all the bombs in WW2.

Research where needed and complete tasks / questions below.

1. Mark the Ho Chi Minh Trail on the map above.

Tunnel Defence: being the Viet Cong.

Mission: to design, build and defend a tunnel system.

You are going to take on the role of a Viet Cong (NLF) soldier/s. Your tunnels have been a very good weapon against the superior firepower of the Americans. However, as the war has progressed the Americans have become more skilled at finding and destroying your tunnel systems. They have new specialised soldiers who they call Tunnel Rats who they send down into your tunnels to kill you and destroy your tunnels. Your mission is to design, build and then defend a tunnel entrance / system and protect the injured soldier in the infirmary.

- Create your trench system: show this by cutting up white paper and sticking onto the A3 diagram.
- Choose 15 items only from the list of 20 below.
- Think of ways to combine / craft items that will help you live, hide, survive and fight in the tunnels.
- Draw out traps / relevant items onto small pieces of paper and place onto your tunnel system.
- Place yourself and any other soldiers onto the diagram.

The TET Offensive, Jan, 1968.

After 3 years of fighting US/ ARVN forces were locked in 'cat and mouse' stalemate with NVA/VC guerrillas.

1967
- NVA General Giap believed it was time to launch a surprise, large attack on the south.
- Troops, weapons and supplies were moved south along the Ho Chi Minh Trail and tunnels.

1967
- He hoped to create an uprising from the southern Vietnamese masses.

21st, Jan 1968
- The real offensive began with NVA and VC attacking Saigon and over one hundred other cities and towns in the south.

30th Jan 1968
- In some towns and cities the attacks failed after only a few hours. In others eg Saigon the fighting lasted for months.

The attack was planned during the TET lunar New Year holiday. A ceasefire had been agreed and Giap knew the Americans would not expect an attack at this time.

21st, Jan 1968
- The North Vietnamese launched a diversionary attack on the American air base at Khe Sanh. This drew some Americans soldiers out of major cities and towns.

30th Jan 1968
- The North Vietnamese had expected the people of the south to rise up and support them but they did not.

The TET offensive was a failure. They did not take control in the south and lost 45,000 NVA and VC soldiers.

30th Jan 1968
- The North Vietnamese had expected the people of the south to rise up and support them but they did not.

BUT, this was the first televised war. Images such as this shocked the American public as did the increasing number of US soldier deaths. TET was a 'wake up call' as to the size and spirit of the enemy.

Investigate: Why did the USA ‘lose’ the Vietnam war?

Discover: four reasons why the USA lost the war. Explore: the strength of these reasons. Skills: source analysis and evaluation.

What factors led to the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam?

In 1973, during peace talks in Paris, it was agreed that the USA would begin the process of removing its combat troops from Vietnamese soil. At the time the U.S. president Richard Nixon described this as an “honorable withdrawal”. In reality this was a humiliating defeat for the USA. How had this happened?

1: Vietnamese Military Strengths.
2: American Military Weaknesses.
3: The Battle For Hearts and Minds.
4: Public Opinion In The United States.

A father shows his dead child to ARVN (southern Vietnamese) soldiers.

How do you think the child died?

Why do you think the father did this?

Dear Roberta,

Today is probably the worst day I have ever lived in my entire, short life. Once again we were in contact with Charlie, and once again we suffered losses. The losses we had today hit home, as my best friend in this shit hole was killed. He was only 22 years old and was going on R&R on the first of June to meet his wife in Hawaii. I feel that if I was only a half second sooner in pulling the trigger, he would still be alive. If there is a place called Hell this surely must be it, and we must be the Devil’s disciples doing all his dirty work.

Love,
Stan.
“We could hear them coming. The big Americans cannot move quietly. Sometimes we could smell them before we heard them. They dropped thousands of tons of bombs on us, but we weren’t even scratched. It was more difficult for them to suffer the hardships of the battle front. We could suffer the hardships much better than they could.”

Accounts of a VC guerrilla.

The first time I killed an American I felt more enthusiasm and hatred. I thought, I would like to kill more Americans to make my country peaceful again. Many of my people were killed by bombs. 10 people in my own village were killed by a napalm bomb. We pulled the bodies out and they only had burned and crooked limbs. These things fuelled my hatred. I did not think of my own hardship. The Americans considered the Vietnamese animals. They wanted to destroy us all and everything we had. “Vi Thi Mo. (Female VC).

What was found and learned in Vietnam, by John Kerry, Major Veterans association, in a speech to US Congress, 1971.

“... We found most people (southern Vietnamese) didn’t know the difference between communism and democracy. They only wanted to work in rice paddies without helicopters strafing them and bombs with napalm burning their villages and tearing their country apart. They wanted everything to do with the war, particularly with this foreign presence of the United States of America, to leave them alone on peace. They practised the art of survival by siding with whichever military force was present at a particular time, be it Vietcong, North Vietnamese, or American. We found also that American men were dying in those rice paddies for want of support from their allies. We saw first hand how money from American taxes was used for a corrupt dictatorial regime. We saw that many people in this country had a one-sided idea of who was kept free by our flag, as blacks provided the highest percentage of casualties. We saw Vietnam ravaged equally by American bombs as well as by search and destroy missions, as well as by Vietcong terrorism, and yet we listened while this country (the USA) tried to blame all of the havoc on the Viet Cong. We rationalized destroying villages in order to save them. We saw America lose her sense of morality and refused to give up the image of American soldiers who hand out chocolate bars.”

The tour in Vietnam was one year. Soldiers were most likely to die in the first month. The large majority of deaths took place in the first six months. Just as a soldier began gaining experience he was sent home. A rookie army that constantly rotated inexperienced men was pitted against experienced guerrillas on their home ground.”

From Four hours in My Lai, Michael Bilton, 1991.
“You can kill ten men for every one I kill of yours. But even at these odds I will still win and you will lose.”
Ho Chi Minh, 1954.

The problem with the American strategy was that, although the suffering of the enemy was great it was not enough to make them concede (give up). Throughout the war the capacity of the Vietnamese to absorb pain outstripped that of the Americans to inflict it. For the Americans, that war was a ‘limited one’ far from home. For the Vietnamese it was total: they were fighting to defend their homeland.’

A modern Historian’s view.

“I had heard of the dedication of the enemy before but to actually see it on the battle field was a mind blower. It was the moment where I solidified my opposition to which the old men in government had put us in. We had no prayer of doing anything positive in this country because the enemy is everyone -everyone either hated us or just be left alone to grow their rice. We should just fold up our money and go home.

... over 150 very highly decorated veterans testified to war crimes committed in Southeast Asia, crimes committed on a day-to-day basis with the full awareness of officers at all levels of command....They told the stories at times they had personally raped, cut off ears, cut off heads, taped wires from portable telephones to human genitals and turned up the power, cut off limbs, blown up bodies, randomly shot at civilians, razed villages in fashion reminiscent of Genghis Khan, shot cattle and dogs for fun, poisoned food stocks......In our opinion, and from our experience, there is nothing in South Vietnam, that realistically threatens the United States of America. And to attempt to justify the loss of one American life in Vietnam by linking such loss to the preservation of freedom, it is that kind of hypocrisy which we feel has torn this country apart.

After a peace treaty was signed in January 1973, South Vietnam made major advances. Hanoi returned POWs and for a time almost everything the U.S. had fought for was achieved. But in March 1973, Congressional leaders in the USA told Nixon that they would not support further U.S. military involvement even if the communist side resumed its aggression. Nixon concluded that Vietnam was a lost cause, although the military situation was otherwise favourable. www.wiki.answers.com

‘You just work and work and work, and blow up and blast but the tunnels are still there. They are so vast and deep and there are so many of them, destroying them was like trying to fertilise a forty acre field with a fart’. Brigadier General, Ellis Williamson.

U.S. planes spray Agent Orange onto the jungle.
‘There were unexploded shells everywhere and we made workshop chambers in the tunnels. We took them apart and made them into weapons of which the Americans were very afraid. We made booby traps and mines with them that could injure up to seven Americans at one time. Every village had specially trained villagers one trained to remove the explosives, another would prepare a new weapon and another worked on the detonators to set them off.’

Captain Linn, Viet Cong.

‘I didn’t make it all the way through my second tour because I was wounded. When I got back home to California, I was treated like someone who had the plague. I was spit on, yelled at, threatened and looked upon as a mass murderer. I wouldn’t do it again.’

Gerald Cooper, Ex U.S. Marine, 1986.

‘In military terms the Viet Cong’s TET operations were a failure, but that was not important. TET was the moment that American casualties over took those suffered in the Korean War. The TET offensive was the moment of painful truth for America that this was a war they couldn’t win. Public and political opinion never recovered from seeing such American losses. Within two months U.S. President Andrew Johnson announced he would not stand in the next election. Ironically, TET was an event from which the Viet Cong would never recover also. Their hardships were so severe that by 1970 and Viet Cong Captain Linh admitted’… “Our morale had collapsed and there were many deserters from the Viet Cong”.
